We support Windows, Linux and Mac and you name it. Windows 10 Phone (Preview) Windows 10 Mobile's new touch-based interface looks pretty good, but it's still buggy. Lots of issues, no doubt some of them will get fixed before it's released. I imagine we'll see some nice UI improvements and new features, but probably no mouse gestures or proper multi-screen support. The video above shows some of the new changes. Being a "Preview" it's the full-fat release, not a "Dev" release, so you can expect some bugs. Some problems I've been seeing. Phone apps running, failing to load After installing my new Windows 10 Mobile build I am seeing a lot of apps simply refuse to open. E.g. Baidu Map, Facebook Messenger etc. You'll notice the little red circle and cross over an icon, this means the app can't load. There doesn't seem to be any error message. Music player fails to download The MP3 files in the Music library can be played fine, they just don't sync. I'm running into this problem a lot, I'm not sure if it's a Windows bug. This is not an issue I'm going to release yet. I've also been noticing the Music app not looking great. Some of the buttons have disappeared, the menu bar is broken up. If you try to select a playlist on the main screen, it'll hang for a while before finally starting to load and actually playing. The to play
